Hey Dads!

The father-child relationship is a significant factor in the emotional and cognitive development of a child. A dad's time and attention can therefore influence how children think of themselves. Spending time in activities together can therefore boost a child's self-esteem!

We would like to invite all fathers and their P1 – P3 child/children* to join us in this experiential workshop. It will provide father and child/children with the opportunity to prepare breakfast and have it together. This is an experience that is fun and impactful for both father and child/children.

*For Clementians only.
